Superhero jigsaw puzzle games

While this puzzles counterintuitive, difficult puzzles can help you relax and feel less stressed. To challenge your brain and help you chill out, the best hard puzzle will include repetitive images, similar colors, and hundreds - or even thousands - of pieces put together. These selections get their difficulty from various factors. Several options are monochrome or feature gradient colors that make it difficult to tell puzzle pieces apart, while others have repetitive images that you need to carefully assemble. Some even increase the level of difficulty with two-sided puzzles that are double the fun (and frustration). And if you're tired of traditional rectangular puzzles, you can challenge yourself with a round puzzle (which is harder for those who like to start with corner puzzle parts) or build a 3-D puzzle that just happens to inspire Harry Potter.Jigsaw puzzles are great for improving memory, problem-solving skills and teamwork, but of course, some puzzles are more challenging than others. If you really want to increase your difficulty level, these highly rated options are some of the best hard puzzles on Amazon to keep your brain exercising. We only recommend products that we love and that we think you will too. Can we get some of the sales from products purchased from this article that was written by our sales team.1This 1000-piece sea skyscraperBgraamiens Skyscraper Sea Puzzle (1000 pieces) AmazonReady browse the entire metropolis? This challenging 1,000-piece puzzle is jam-packed with skyscraper drawings in different colors, but the lines of buildings are hard to match up. If you get stuck, the back of the puzzle is divided into letter areas to guide you through. After assembling, the puzzle measures 24 to 24 inches. According to the conundrum: 'I liked the complexity of the puzzle structure. The pieces vary greatly in size and shape and fit nicely together. Due to the complexity, the back of the puzzle has sections A to F with letters printed on the back of the piece. I used the letters to separate the pieces that made the puzzle easier. If you want a more challenging experience, don't sort it out. 2An All-White Puzzle This is ridiculously hard! you are really up for the challenge, you can put together this all-white puzzle consisting of 1,000 tiny pieces. Aptly named Pure White Hell, the puzzle offers no pictures or colors that guide you—it's all about connecting lots of small interlocking pieces. Completed puzzle measures around 15 to 10 inches. By Conundrum: It's a really hard puzzle. Anyone looking for a challenge should get it... or someone who wants to torture someone who loves puzzles should get it. 3A Rainbow-colored round puzzle that won't let you get started in corners!f you're used to getting started with corners, this 1000-piece round puzzle will get you running for your money. And the gradual rainbow color gradient is just gentle enough to make it even more However, the back of the puzzle is divided into leafy areas to help if you get stuck. When completed, it has a diameter of 25.6 inches. Under the conundrum: This is by far the biggest puzzle I've ever done. Great quality pieces that click on together and stay together. The right balance challenging and satisfying. I finished this child with pride. 4This Pretty - &amp;#amp;#amp; Pretty Challenging - Rose PuzzleBgraamiens The Rose (1000 pieces)AmazonStop and the smell of roses with this 1,000-piece puzzle in shades of red, pink and white that will surely take you some time to complete. The touchy puzzle gives you some instructions on the back if you get stuck, but I recommend flipping all the pieces over — you'll feel a lot more accomplished when you're done. The finished size is 24 to 24 inches. According to the conundrum: The quality of this puzzle was even better than expected - it's certainly challenging because there are only two colors involved. Not for the faint of heart! 5A Double-Sided Beach Puzzle that reminds you that you are on vacationGalsion Gray Malin 2-Sided Puzzle (500 pieces) AmazonChannel summer holiday vibe with this two-sided puzzle that features a beach crowded with sunbathers on one side and snorkeling swimming over a coral reef on the other. If a winter break is your thing, check out the slopes puzzle, or if you've dreamed of putting your passport to good use, opt for the Italian Riviera scene. The 500-piece puzzle measures 24 to 18 inches when completed. According to the conundrum: Love it! It's challenging and frustrating, but in a good way. [...] yes, it took longer to finish, but that's what makes it fun! Go for it, it's great! 6An Out-Of-This-World Solar System puzzle that requires a NASA-Level SkillsMorus space puzzle (1,000 pieces)AmazonFeaturing planets, spacecraft, satellites and astronauts, this 1,000-piece solar system puzzle is, well, astronomically challenging. It comes with a link poster to put you on the right track, and your back is divided into letter groups to give instructions if you get stuck. The assembled size is about 28 to 20 inches. Under the Conundrum: Love this puzzle! It has a lot going on, some parts are simple and some are not. Very colorful. 7Th this juicy spectrum puzzle This is an absolutely fascinating Galsion Succulent Spectrum Puzzle (500 pieces) Amazon!n you have a green thumb, you will love this 500-piece puzzle that contains succulents arranged in an eye-catching grid. Even better, it comes with a juicy information sheet so you can learn about each plant as you assemble a puzzle. When completed, it measures 20 to 20 inches. You can also opt for 10 other brightly coloured and challenging puzzles such as butterflies, popsicles, balls and buttons. Under the conundrum: This is the most adorable puzzle ever!!! The box is beautiful, the puzzle is beautiful, it's great! If you like puzzles and succulents, you have to get it. 8A monochrome wine cork puzzle that gets harder the more you will Wine Corks Puzzle (1,000 pieces) AmazonCrack open a bottle of wine and get to work on this 1,000-piece wine cork puzzle that is a must-have for enophiles and puzzle enthusiasts. With pictures of wine corks laid to the end, virtually monochromatic coloring creates a real challenge that will only get harder with each additional glass of pinot noir. The assembled size is 17.5 to 26.5 inches. According to the conundrum: One of my favorite puzzles ever. It was really hard, but not impossible. He made me find another approach to the mystery. The 9A Double-Sided Puzzle Cat Puzzle that just might stump youDubbed the world's heaviest, this purr-fect 529-piece puzzle features exactly the same feline artwork on both sides - but compensated for 90 degrees - so you can't tell which side is which. (Yes, it gets frustrating, but in the best possible way.) The finished puzzle measures approximately 15 to 15 inches, and finishing is almost as satisfying as solving the puzzle of your cat's personality. According to the conundrum: The hardest ever. You think you cracked it, but NO! If you like jigsaws, you need to enjoy it. 10A Gradient Color Puzzle, which looks like a modern artAreadare Gradient Puzzle (500 pieces) AmazonThis gradient color puzzle is harder than it looks, but is worthy of being hung in a gallery when it's done. The puzzle comes in eight gradient colors, such as bronze/teal, black/white, and blue/green, and there are three sizes to choose from: original (500 pieces), small (100 pieces), and large (1,000 pieces). The original size-puzzle measures 18 to 24 inches when assembled. By Conundrum: Such a series of puzzles that provides hours of fun and challenge. He looked so beautiful when we finished with the fact that we mod podged it up and framed it. Impressed by the quality of the pieces, colors and levels of the game. 11A 3-D puzzle for Harry Potter fansOnly create some Harry Potter-inspired magic with this Diagon Alley-inspired 3-D puzzle. The 450-piece puzzle features popular deals from Diagon Alley like Ollivanders, Weasleys' Wizard Wheezes, and Flourish and Blotts. The robust 3-D puzzle does not require glue and measures 21.75 to 7.75 to 8.5 inches during assembly. Display it on a shelf next to all your beloved Harry Potter books. According to the conundrum: [It's] a fun but really challenging puzzle even for a 3D guru! Very much worth the sweat &#amp;#amp; swearing! Show when done, people love and offer to buy ... I'm not going to sell mine! Source: Android CentralJordan Palmer Smartphone touchscreen controls offer puzzle game developers a unique opportunity. Our handheld devices are uniquely suited for smart puzzle games because they are easy to pick up and play whenever you have a few free moments. If you're looking for a brain test game, check some of them out. And when you're done here, be sure to check out our best Android games! Room is a widely celebrated puzzle franchise developed by Fireproof Games for There are four games in a series that each offer hours of challenging puzzle fun. They resemble classic adventure series like Myst and Siberia, into which you can easily dive for many hours, so you have been warned. The last game in the series is Room: Old Sins, which we've teamed up with below, but the whole series is worth checking out if you like a good puzzle. Each of The Room's games is a premium title with no ads or microtransactions and they're just scary enough to keep you on your toes. Immerse yourself in this popular series of puzzle games that hearken back to classics like Myst. Each room game is worth checking out. Mini Metro is an award-winning subway simulator that is steeped with puzzle elements. You have the task of drawing metro lines that connect different stations that pop up when your city expands. You need to make sure passengers arrive where they need to go on time, which often requires re-drawing your lines to be more efficient. With a brilliant minimalist aesthetic, a responsive soundtrack that's materialized by the metro lines you'll build, and tons of different game modes to enjoy, you'll fall in love with the Mini Metro. It's probably the best game to play when you're actually on the subway. Mini Metro is great. It's a simple but addictive game that draws you subway lines. Enjoy minimalism. Bridge Constructor is a great physics-based puzzle game in itself, but this spin-off has a concept and adds in all the crazy elements from the portal and aperture lab. There are 60 test chambers to complete using portals, along with drive and repellent gels all while avoiding deadly lasers, pit acid, and sentient towers. It's an excellent cross-over title that provides a challenge that will delight fans of Bridge Constructor and portal alike. It's an absolute pleasure to play with tons of portal links and even feature Google Play game achievements to help in replayability! Most constructor meets the portal in this excellent cross-over. Avoid environmental hazards and use your technology to complete 60 levels. Source: Google Play Store The New York Times daily crossword puzzles are probably one of the most famous puzzle games of all time, and you can play them all right on your phone — no pencil or pen — with this free app. To access everyday great puzzles, you need to be ordered times, but you get daily Mini Puzzles on the 5x5 board for free. Each puzzle only takes a minute or two to complete, but these are really fun and satisfying ways to start your day. Additional puzzle packs are also available through in-app purchases. You get a free weekly trial of premium stuff, but as I said above, you'll need to be a Times subscriber to get it all. Still, it's great for quick puzzles in the morning when you're drinking coffee, waiting for a bus, or sitting on the subway. Who doesn't like a good crossword puzzle? The New York Times Just an app for you, and when you get the most out of it by being a subscriber, you can still get some smaller puzzles for free. Threes! Is a fun and surprisingly cute puzzle game based on numbers, which aims to swipe the grid and match the numbers. You have to be strategic because if you fill-up the board and run out of moves it's game over! It's a simple game, but one can spend hours trying to master it. For a truly unlimited experience, you'll want to buy a full game without ads or distractions. If you prefer to save your money, there's a free-to-play version, but you'll need to watch ads to earn more games. It's a bit steep price for a game of this type, but when the end product is good, I'm more than happy to support indie developers. Seriously, check out this one if you live time-killing puzzlers. How can a puzzle game about numbers be cute, you ask? Give the threesomes! try to find out. Twenty48 Solitaire is an excellent mash-up between the 2048 puzzle game and the classic Solitaire. It's varied enough to stand out from 2048 tile-replacement gameplay while adding in some of the more satisfying card tricks of Solitaire games. You can set a line with the correct sequence to create a waterfall of deleted cards, which is so satisfying. You need to be strategic about placing the card because it's easy to box yourself in. I wouldn't say that monetizing a model in this game is my favorite thing, but gameplay is so addictive that I do my best to overlook it. Twenty48 Solitaire is a really interesting take on two different games, satisfactorily combining 2048 and Solitaire. Monument Valley is an award-winning puzzle game that offers outstanding art and sound design. You play as Ida, a princess who has to find her way through fantastic structures that you have to manipulate and change to complete the journey and help her reach her goal. The controls are simple: click to move the princess while discovering different ways you can move the surrounding structures. It's an intuitive experience that forces you to look at things from a different perspective. The sequel, Monument Valley 2, is much the same, but in a good way. There are a few other twists and turns to the formula, but if you liked the first one, you'll appreciate the sequel. Monument Valley is so good it has copycats. Both games are wonderful puzzle games and worth playing. Dissembler is a colorful and relaxing puzzle game that is seemingly easy to play and features fantastic puzzles. At its core, it's a tile-swapping match-three game, and each level requires you to flip the tiles to match up the colors. However, it's much more than that. Things begin nice and simple, with the game laying down the basic principles as it gradually introduces you to more complex puzzles. Don't worry though, because you'll be ready for them. Exist 120 puzzles that aren't included without time limits, movement restrictions, ads, or in-app purchases to be addressed. Taking match-three to all new heights, Dissembler is a wonderful puzzle game that takes time and thought to master. Like all the best puzzle games, two dots are easy to learn, difficult to master, and highly addictive. This is a sequel to the wildly popular game Dots and the goal remains the same: connect as many dots of the same color as you can. The sequel brings new skills to the table, along with 900+ levels to work through. Once you have completed the first 10 levels that act as a tutorial, Two Dots offers linear adventures of sorts in Treasure Hunt, and unlock a new mode called Expedition once you have reached level 35. There's a lot of different, fun and adorable minimalism to keep you going. The soundtrack is something special, too. Much more than just connecting the dots, the two dots feature spectacular variety and replayability. Source: Google Play Store The best puzzle games are seemingly easy to play while offering a brain-busting challenge. It describes Patterns, a puzzle game that has you rotate pieces to create shapes of different sizes. Each puzzle tells you how many shapes to make and how many pieces can be attached for each one. I swear, sometimes the puzzle looks impossible, and then all of a sudden it just comes together. If you want to put logical skills to the test, then this is a game you have to look at. There are two modes, timed and freeplay one: the first of these is aimed at people who want stress and challenge. Patterns is free to play, although you can buy a developer a cup of coffee through in-app purchases to remove ads. Probably one of the best brain-teaser/logic puzzle games in the Play Store, Designs is a joy to play. It could be frustrating at times, but keep on doing it and you'll eventually succeed. MC Esher would be damn proud of the hocus, a mind-bending, perspective-based puzzle game that is easy to play, challenging to master, and allows you to create and play other user-created puzzles. Your goal is to get the cube to the red surface marker as fast and efficiently as you can. There are more than 100 official puzzles that require you to swipe to move the cube around the shape. When you hit an intersection between two roads, you can completely change direction on another road. It's wonderful in its minimalism and easy to drop a few hours into. A minimalist prospective conundrum, hocus makes you really think outside the box. Things aren't always what they seem. Brain It On! Is an addictive physics-based puzzle game that requires you to think outside the box to solve each level. Use your finger or stylus to draw lines, shapes, weighted objects, or anything else that you think will solve each screen. Sounds simple, doesn't it? Things become progressively more challenging and creative as you progress through more than 200 levels, with stars awarded for completing levels, finishing within the time limit, and minimizing shapes used for the solution. In the free version, future levels can be unlocked to earn stars. You can only pay to remove ads or remove ads and add tips. Yet another addictive game in our list, Brain It On! Is an awesome physics-based puzzler with lots of challenges and replayability. The hitman was the first gaming franchise Square Enix transformed into its clever GO turn-based puzzle format, and it endures. You play as Agent 47 and must work your way through the heavily-guarded compound using all the same techniques found in the full Hitman game: disguises, distractions, sniper rifles, and of course, 47 is the iconic Silverballer pistol. There are several ways to beat each level, whether you want to be quiet and sneaky, or force and deadly. You can choose what kind of hitman you are, how you work to assassinate your main goals. The game also looks amazing and it's sure to please all the Hitman fans out there who are looking for a little more assassination on the go. The first of the GO games, Hitman GO is a great turn-based puzzle that makes you think about how you want to approach a given situation. Tomb Raider's Lara Croft is back in this challenging entry, which adds new wrinkles to the turn-based puzzles introduced with Hitman GO. Lara Croft is athletic and adventurous, and her GO game reflects that with turn-based puzzles that dodging her boobytraps and deadly enemies as she work her way through 115 levels divided into seven chapters. It's an award-winning game that lures you with its excellent visuals and keeps you playing with its increasingly challenging puzzles. There are unlockables and some terrible turn-based actions that will keep you engaged. Like Hitman GO, there are several ways to complete a level. Another excellent entry into Enix's Square GO mobile franchise, Lara Croft GO is a fun puzzle where you play the eponymous heroine as she explores ancient ruins. Deus Ex is the latest franchise to get a GO treatment, and it just may be the best yet. With visuals that reflect the cyberpunk stylings of Deus Ex, along with new elements of hacking games, you play as Adam Jensen, who works to unravel the intricate mysteries as you sneak your way through well-guarded fortresses. This game goes so well with the Deus Ex universe and works perfectly with the GO formula. It probably features the most materialized-out storyline of the three. It also sports time-limited puzzles along with a level editor so you can design, share and play levels from the game community. I remember spending the whole afternoon diving into this game when it came out a few years ago. I keep coming back from time to time to re-experience puzzles and spend that much longer in the world of Deus Ex (which is one of my favorite video game franchises). The best of GO games, Deus Ex go offers a cyberpunk puzzle experience that is top-notch. Seriously, this is amazing. Most games that provide you with a small party of playable heroes with unique skills challenge Achieve the goal while trying to keep everyone alive. This is not the case with Total Party Kill, where victims must be executed, and only one hero - either your sword-wielding Knight, ice spell-casting wizard, or ace archer Ranger - must successfully reach the exit of the 60 deadly dungeons presented in this game. There's a lot of strategy, puzzle, and platforming action in Total Party Kill. It is a must-play game for all fans of retro platformers or quick puzzle games. And if you like quirky humor, then you get a kick out of Total Party Kill. Sacrifices must be made! Conquer each level where success means getting at least one of your three heroes to the end. Vectronium is a psychedelic puzzle platformgame where you have to stick with the rhythm if you want to succeed and solve each color level. The game contains intuitive controls to control your cube, which will take you by swiping and tapping to the beat. Levels are constantly changing in sync with pounding beat music, so you have to keep up with the rhythm to avoid falling into traps. One of vectron's highlighting features is the soundtrack. It's fantastic. The game ups the ante as you go along, with beats getting wilder and puzzles getting harder. It is also regularly updated with user-generated content. I love this game and it's worth every penny. Solve some intense puzzles that go hand in hand with the kickass soundtrack. Source: Google Play Store I don't think we have to spend too much time here. Without exception, Tetris is the most iconic puzzle game ever created. This is the new official Tetris app for Android and offers great touch screen control, although only classic mode is available. There are five fun topics to choose from, including a total throwback on the Game Boy days. Everyone said it's a pretty clean version of Tetris to enjoy on the phone. It's free to play with ads, but you can remove them with a one-time $5 in-app purchase. The classic is here, and why wouldn't that be the case? Everyone knows about Tetris and it's a must-play for every player out there. Attack your ears and eyes with Thumper, an awesome rhythm game. It's powerful, it's wonderful, and it's just the right amount of weird and creepy to make things interesting. The soundtrack is a crucial piece of this game, so you'd expect it to be great. Spoiler: It is. The premise is simple: you're a space beetle hurtling forward at blistering speed when you confront a huge head. Sounds pretty silly, but that's not the point of the game. There are nine levels for you to conquer and each one is a treat. Boss battles are something else, but I don't want to ruin it for you. Thumper is a one-time premium purchase without ads or other microtransactions. I have a PC version and I love it, and the mobile version is just as good. This is psychedelic rhythmic hell, and I like it. Thumper is worth the money for addictive gameplay and visuals. Da Vinci's House is 3D That requires you to solve various puzzles (duh), escape from certain rooms, explore and find hidden objects, and otherwise have a good time. It asks you to pay attention to your surroundings and make your wits about you. Touch is well optimized, never give me any problems as I navigated the gaming world. Aesthetic and setting are interesting and special, with lots of mechanical puzzles and cool setpieces. Finally, the story is good enough for you to find out and wonder what's going on. A unique and fun 3D puzzle game, Dom Da Vinci requires your maximum attention. It's a fun puzzle game/mystery. Transmission is all about establishing links to establish communication lines. Your goal is to solve each puzzle to create a network and makeover, it can get intense. There are 70 levels to beat with 146 stars to collect, so the completionists out there have a lot of work to do. It supports play games achievements, multiple ways to solve each level, and an amazing soundtrack. There are several hours of content here to enjoy and it's a great way to visualize how networks work. Minimalist artistic style is great to look at. Transmission is just an amazing game, what else can I say? Visualize different networks as you solve puzzles and connect communication nodes. Transfer is great for technology enthusiasts and fans of puzzle games alike. All that remains is less a puzzle game and more adventure that contains tons of puzzles. Either way, it's an excellent escape room-style game. In addition to being just the name of a pretty good metalcore band, it features an interesting premise that is a high bet and keeps you on edge all the time. This can be stressful in points, for sure. You wake up in a strange bunker and you have to escape every room. In each, you will find various logic puzzles and puzzles. It also looks fantastic and sounds great, too. You'll communicate with the player's sister - who claims your character was locked in a bunker for his own good - over a two-way radio. It has a worrying feeling, so if you're worried that you're locked in a bunker, it's not for you. Otherwise, if you like to escape the room games, give everything that remains to try. It's a one-time premium purchase with no ads or IAPs at all. Escape your father's old emergency bunker in this escape room thriller. Solve logic puzzles and puzzles before you find out why you were locked up. Ever play Riven or Myst? Ara's eyes are in much the same vein - an open-ended adventure where you solve puzzles, unlock clues, and uncover bits of story piece by piece. It's a little blunt, but that's what makes it enjoyable and nostalgic. Riven wasn't an easy game for the younger ones to beat me, so I have a soft spot for games like this. The 3D environment is stellar and looks good for mobile games. It's a premium title that doesn't contain any ads or IAPs, so you can just sit back, relax and enjoy the intense fun conundrum. It took me a while to beat him, so you are a lot for your money. Fans of games like Myst and Riven will love Ara's eyes. It's a 3D adventure where you solve puzzles, find hidden rooms and safes, and uncover a good story slowly. Hello neighbor is a stealth horror puzzle game. It has been ported over from pc/console release and handles surprisingly well on mobile, although it's a pretty expensive dip in anyway, it's worth it. You play a snooty neighbor who is spying on a fellow neighborhood resident. He said the man has something behind us and you're determined to find out what he's hiding in his basement. You will break into his house over and over again, but he will learn your patterns every time and set the defense against you. In response, you have to come up with a new strategy by circumventing what is set out. Like I said, this game will run you quite a penny, but I think it's worth it if you want a strategy/puzzle game with horror elements. It's definitely a weird assumption, but it's fun if you're into what it offers. It's very highly regarded over on Steam, so you should take that as a good sign for the Android version. It's free to install and try, but then you'll be asked to fork over $15 to unlock the full experience. Find out what your neighbor is up to in this horror strategy conundrum. Break into his house over and over again as he walks past his defenses every time. Puzzle games are among the best games you can play on your phone — although there are many other games we love. Any of the games on this list are well worth the money, but if you want a free puzzle I would highly recommend downloading transmissions, probably the best free puzzler on this list, and the NYTimes Crossword app for a daily dose of 5x5 Mini crossword puzzles while you enjoy a morning cup of coffee. If you didn't spend a little money, you can't go wrong with room series that are some of the most beautifully-designed games in the entire Play Store and feature clock puzzle challenges. I also have to shout Bridge Constructor Portal because it's the perfect crossover between two great games and is probably the closest we'll ever get to a new game portal. For any time you have to pay to play Getting a Play Gift Card is the safest way to load your Google Account with credit used for in-app purchases or premium games without regrouping. Source: Google Play Store Chess Light is a puzzle game that is inspired by chess rather than a real chess game. It might have appeared in our best chess roundup puzzles, but it certainly belongs here! You have more than 180 puzzles and six difficulty levels. There's a hint system for you if you get stuck, but where's the fun in that? Chess Light is free without ads, so get on with it! It can get really challenging, but I recommend you stick to it. Less than a chess puzzle game inspired by chess, Chess Light is a fun and challenging game. Light up all the squares to beat the level! Turn on everything Solve black box puzzles with gears, levers, gears, switches, dials, and more. Some of these problems are quite intense and will really push you. You must not only find out what each thing does, but also the correct timing to eventually solve the puzzle. The best part about this game is that you have no idea what's going on from the beginning. That's part of his mystimation and the entertainment factor. But if things get a little too easy for you, there are other badges to chase that you earn by filling the levels quickly. This game surprised me how fun it is and it's definitely a hidden gem on the Play Store. Turn it on! It's all about solving black box puzzles that use a seemingly impossible amount of elements. Not only do you have to figure out what each piece does, but you also have to nail down the timings. Updated December 2020: Added a chess light and turn it on! to our list! We can get a commission on purchases using our links. find out more. More.
